

FDR WIN MAY SURPASS 3RD TERM TRIUMPH; LAUSCHE LEADING STEWART BY 77,008 VOTES

Taft Winner; Dewey Holds 18,607 Margin

(By The Associated Press)
COLUMBUS, Nov. 8.—Mayor Frank J. Lausche of Cleveland today emerged as Ohio's first democratic governor in six years, pushed into a mounting lead by a flood of votes from northern Ohio's populous and industrial states which also whittled the Republicans' presidential lead in Ohio to a bare margin.

Overcoming a lead which his Republican opponent, Mayor James Garfield Stewart of Cincinnati, once built to almost 40,000 votes, Lausche took command of a neck-and-neck race and won the battle going away.

Returns from 8,917 of the state's 9,303 polling places as compiled by The Associated Press gave Lausche 1,491,244 and Stewart 1,414,236, a difference of 77,008 votes.

At the same time, returns slashed to 18,607 votes the margin of Republicans Thomas E. Dewey and John W. Bricker over President Roosevelt and Sen. Harry S. Truman. Dewey once held a margin of 106,897 votes.

Lausche, who bore the endorsement of the CIO-Political Action committee, traded first place seven times with Stewart as the counting progressed.

Not since Gov. John W. Bricker defeated Martin L. Davey in 1933 to begin a three-term Republican reign in Ohio has a Democrat been in the executive mansion.

Lausche, son of a Slovenian immigrant who came to this nation to work in the steel mills at Cleveland, has been regarded generally as an independent Democrat, refusing to go along with the organization if the organization was not going his way.

His victory appeared on the basis of incomplete returns to be possibly the only major victory for Democrats in the state, although U.S. Sen. Robert A. Taft's once-heavy lead over William G. Pickrel was dwindling early in the afternoon.

Returns from 8,960 polling places gave him 1,423,088 votes to 1,395,603 for Pickrel, a lead of 27,485 with 340 polling places still out. Taft once had a lead of upward of 90,000 votes.

George H. Bender, Republican incumbent congressman-at-large, was having no trouble with William Glass, a Democrat from Campbell.

Returns from 8,140 polling places gave Bender 1,314,820, Glass 1,150,047.

LEWIS WINNER FOR CONGRESS

Republican Re-elected By
4,000; Stephenson Loses
State Senate Race

Congressman Earl R. Lewis, Republican, was re-elected in the 18th Ohio district yesterday, defeating Ross Michener, Democrat, by a plurality of approximately 4,000.

Lewis carried three of the five counties for a total vote of 65,005 against 61,039 for Michener.

In the state senatorial race, John P. Stephenson, R. of East Liverpool, lost his bid for a second term to his fellow-townsmen, Dr. Joseph Williamson, D., by a margin of 5,200.

Stephenson carried his own county of Columbiana and also Harrison, but lost out in Jefferson and Belmont. The total vote was Williamson 60,106, Stephenson 54,904.

Columbiana county gave Congressman Lewis a lead of 7,974 and he picked up 2,416 votes in Carroll and 2,068 in Harrison counties. Belmont county, home of both candidates, gave Michener a lead of 6,266 and Jefferson went to him by 2,226.

By counties the vote was:
Columbiana—Lewis 21,204, Michener 13,230.
Jefferson—Lewis 17,640, Michener 19,866.
Belmont—Lewis 16,092, Michener 22,358.
Harrison—Lewis 5,117, Michener 3,043.
Carroll—Lewis 4,952, Michener 2,536.

Stephenson, who represented this county in the Ohio house before his election to the senate two years ago, carried only one of the three big counties in the senatorial district. To his lead of 5,909 in Columbiana he added 1,630 in Harrison, lost Belmont by 7,023 and Jefferson by 5,718.

WANAMAKER TAKES OHIO COURT LEAD

Chief Justice Weygandt
Trailing Akron Man;
Hart Tops Duffy

(By Associated Press)
COLUMBUS, Nov. 8.—Walter B. Wanamaker, Akron Republican, moved into the lead early today in an election contest for chief justice of the Ohio Supreme court, as unofficial returns from 4,003 of the state's 9,306 voting places gave him a 7,891 margin over Chief Justice Carl V. Weygandt, Cleveland Democrat seeking his third term.

Wanamaker, Summit county common pleas judge for the last 14 years, had a total of 401,872 votes, against 393,981 for Weygandt.

Metropolitan centers such as Dayton, Youngstown, Cincinnati, Columbus and Cleveland, however, were running in Weygandt's favor, and more than half the returns from populous areas still were unreported.

Judge Wanamaker's main strength came from rural counties and his home town of Akron.

Two Republican judges of the court, both seeking re-election, polled margins of almost 2 to 1 over Democratic opponents on the basis of returns from 3,851 precincts.

Edward S. Matthias of Van Wert, an Ohio Supreme court judge since 1915 and holding the longest service record on the court's history, had a total of 445,739 votes, compared with 297,503 for Charles H. Hubbell, Cleveland Democrat.

Wanamaker, Alliance Republican seeking his second term, polled 444,135 votes against 322,877 for Herbert S. Duffy of Columbus, former Ohio State attorney general.

Republicans Sweep County Except Treasurer; Lead Of 7,000 For Cope, Judge 3,500

With the exception of treasurer, which went to Vincent C. Judge of Salem by a plurality of 3,500 over Richard O. Wilson of East Liverpool, Columbiana county went Republican by a big margin Tuesday.

In the sweep which carried the county ticket for the Republicans, Atty. Milton Cope, R. of Lisbon emerged the winner for probate judge by a lead of some 7,000 over his Democratic opponent, Atty. W. Edmund Peters of Salem.

The county gave Dewey the preference by a margin of about 1,400, but the Republican trend became stronger in the state contests and overwhelming in the county ticket.

Stewart carried the county over Lausche by some 2,700. Taft was the winner by 3,300, Bender by 4,500.

In his race for congress, Earl Lewis picked up a lead of over 8,000 in Columbiana county and State Senator John P. Stephenson had a lead of 6,000.

County Clerk John W. Coleman maintained his popularity by leading the entire ticket and gaining re-election with a plurality of 8,500 over Lee Pelley, D. of Salem.

Charles O. Snyder, R. of Salem, went back into the engineer's office with a lead of 5,300 over Robert Wheatley, R. of East Liverpool. Prosecuting Atty. Frank W. Springer, R. of East Palestine was re-elected over former Prosecutor Karl Stouffer of Homeworth by about 7,000 and Sheriff George Hayes, R. of Lisbon, defeated Lee Copenhaver, D. of East Liverpool by about 6,700.

John McBane Kerr of Yellow Creek township was re-elected state representative by a 5,500 plurality over his Democratic opponent, John Buta of Salem, and John H. Irwin, R. of East Palestine, former county auditor, was elected county recorder over R. A. Plate by about 6,000.

City Gives Narrow Lead To President; Tax Levy Approved

Salem supported its half-mill tax levy to take care of municipal salaries and wages at the polls yesterday gave the top of the ticket slight Democratic leads and then turned in Republican majorities for its county ticket except for a better than two to one lead for Vincent Judge for treasurer.

The levy, requiring a 65 per cent vote to carry, and was given 136 more than that, with a vote of 3569 for and 1712 against.

Roosevelt carried the city and township by 155, Lausche by 443 and Pickrel by 82.

Judge carried the city over Wilson, 4447 to 2034, and Peters beat Cope here by 749.

Snyder Given 900 Lead
Snyder carried his home city by a 900 plurality. Congressman Lewis had a 621 margin, Senator John Stephenson 309 and John Kerr led John Buta by 240.

Salem gave the two Republican commissioner car dates, slight leads, and turned a pluralities of 665 for Springer, 34 for Coleman, 737 for Hayes, 558 for Irwin and 240 for Devon.

In the city 98 voters wrote in the name of Mrs. Edith Dawson for the short term for treasurer.

Total vote in the city and township was 7,085, about 200 less than four years ago. One of the election peculiarities was the fact that 183 who went to the polls in Salem and Perry township failed to mark their ballots for president.

GREENFORD, GOSHEN ISSUES APPROVED

Voters Okay School Building Programs; Salem Twp. Levy Lost

District school current expense levies met with approval at the polls yesterday and bond issues for school improvement were okayed by voters in Goshen and Greenford townships.

East Liverpool voters approved two city levies, one for hospital maintenance and the other for operational expenses in the school system.

The only two tax measures before the voters yesterday which were defeated were those in Letonia and Washingtonville. Letonia had up for consideration a one-mill levy for operational expenses on rural roads by about 6,700.

John McBane Kerr of Yellow Creek township was re-elected state representative by a 5,500 plurality over his Democratic opponent, John Buta of Salem, and John H. Irwin, R. of East Palestine, former county auditor, was elected county recorder over R. A. Plate by about 6,000.

Republican Commissioners

In the commissioner race, Kim Crawford of Middleton township and Clarence Robinson of Lisbon, both Republicans, pushed Frank Fisher of St. Clair township out of office after serving three terms. Their lead over Fisher was 3,200, each receiving almost the same vote. James A. Gibson, D. of Letonia, was fourth man in the race.

Another Democrat lost his place on the county ticket when Coroner Arnold Devon of East Liverpool was defeated by Ernest Sturgis, also of East Liverpool, by about 2,400.

Interest in the county centered on the probate judge and treasurer contests. In the latter Vincent Judge was given strong support in every section of the county, even carrying Wilson's home city of East Liverpool.

While Peters went out of Salem with a lead of 749, he developed little strength in other parts of the county and dropped the race to Cope by more than two to one.

Judge was elected to the full term as treasurer, and Mrs. Edith Dawson, widow of the late Treasurer Olen H. Dawson of East Liverpool, won the short term by the write-in method. She was given a fairly large vote in every section of the county.

Victory Over Dewey Grows; Vote Over 400

(By The Associated Press)
President Roosevelt's fourth term victory, looming larger by the hour, held the prospect today of surpassing his third term triumph.

It threatened to engulf Michigan, one of the 10 Republican states of 1940. And Ohio, after hours in the Dewey-Bricker column, showed signs of changing over.

At the same time, the Democrats tightened their grip on Congress with 51 certain senate seats and gains in the house.

These late counts grew from a tremendous outpouring of voters taking part in the nation's first wartime election since 1864.

Even without Michigan (19 electoral votes) and Ohio (25) the President's electoral vote margin over Gov. Thomas E. Dewey stood at 407 to 124 on the basis of leads in 34 states.

The popular vote totals swelled to 19,732,803 for Roosevelt and 17,299,523 for Dewey when 97,297 of the country's 130,810 voting units had reported.

NEW FACES DUE IN WASHINGTON

Expect Half Dozen Major
Appointments In New Official Family

WASHINGTON, Nov. 8.—You can expect to see some new faces in official Washington even though the Roosevelt administration has been returned for another four years.

At least half a dozen major appointments are expected.

There is always the possibility, too, of a change in the cabinet. The members customarily submit their resignations the day after election. President Roosevelt has been ignoring them up to now.

Most recent subject of speculation along this line is 73-year-old Cordell Hull, secretary of state for 12 years. He is in a hospital now with a throat ailment.

Mr. Roosevelt has steadfastly brushed aside any inquiries that a younger, stronger man for this most important post would be considered.

Possibilities mentioned publicly include Vice President Wallace and Undersecretary of State Stettinius.

The director of the new Office of War Mobilization and Reconversion, succeeding James F. Byrnes, and three members of the surplus war property board are due to be announced when congress convenes one week hence.

These next four years may develop the greatest turnover in the official family of the four Roosevelt terms. Three of Mr. Roosevelt's original cabinet still hold their positions—Interior Secretary Ickes, Hull and Secretary of Labor Perkins. Hull is 73, Ickes is 70, Mrs. Perkins 62. Real oldest of the "family" is 77-year-old Secretary of War Stimson, a Republican.

Wallace King Dies In Detroit Tuesday

Wallace D. King, 80, former prominent Salem business man, died Tuesday at his home in Detroit, his nephew, Dr. L. W. King, has been advised.

For many years Mr. King, head of the Salem Lumber Co., was active in the civic life of Salem, where he spent most of his life, having gone to Detroit several years ago. He was a son of Abraham and Louisa King.

Surviving are one sister, Mrs. Loretta Stanley of Cleveland. His wife and daughter died a few years ago.

The body will be brought to Salem for funeral service and burial. Arrangements will be announced later.

Truman Is Seated

With Mr. Roosevelt, of course, went Vice Presidential nominee Harry S. Truman, who ten years ago was an obscure county judge in Missouri.

Gov. John W. Bricker of Ohio, who campaigned harder than any other man in his capacity as No. 2 on the Republican ticket, said at Columbus that he joined in Dewey's sentiment.

The Democrats needed 13 seats for a majority in the senate which must ratify peace and other treaties. Early today at least 14 were assured.

In the house, Rep. Hamilton Flah (R-NY) was numbered among the voters' rejects. At least 14 Republican seats fell to the Democrats.

Had Fish been re-elected and had the Republicans won a majority to organize the house, he would have become chairman of the rules committee—something Democrats had said in the campaign would hurt prospects of international collaboration to insure peace.

This issue—how to end the war and how to assume a peace that won't fall apart every 25 years or so—had been the predominant one.

Our Course Is Set

America has made a wartime decision at the polls. It will stick with its winning team.

The alternative—Gov. Dewey's promise to back up existing military leadership with a government reorganized at the civilian level—stands rejected.

Our political course for the duration of the war is set.

When peace comes, as everybody believes it will, long before the next general election, Mr. Roosevelt's government will have to re-orient itself. Its next chance to go to the people will be the congressional elections in 1946.

President Roosevelt's countrymen pray for his well-being at the moment of his unprecedented reelection assuring him twice as many terms in office as his most distinguished predecessors. It is clear that their confidence reposes in him as an individual, not in his political coalition and not in his political associates.

The nation emerges from the election potentially stronger for the experience. Great issues have been joined and many doubts resolved. We have reconstituted a majority and, at the same time, a minority—a loyal opposition. It remains to be seen whether the opportunity to capitalize on our political revitalization is used or abused.

Our political structure is undergoing a change whose outcome is still in doubt. The coalition which has formed behind Mr. Roosevelt is being rearranged by extremely potent forces. The Republican party likewise is striving to adjust itself to changed circumstances, but these are matters for future speculation when more is known about them.

The present fact of greatest importance is that we have completed the quadrennial process by which the nation renews the momentum of its political progress. We have strengthened our determination to get ahead with the problems of the present and the future.

It is of the greatest importance that both parties stood together in the election on the terms of America's responsibility for leadership toward international security and for the encouragement of free enterprise to provide full employment after the war. There has been and can be no division of opinion on these purposes.

The chronic weakness of Mr. Roosevelt's government since 1933 has been its failure to understand the advantage and to practice the techniques of political unity. It has been preoccupied with partisanship too often at the expense of statesmanship.

Its future influence abroad and its success at home will be enhanced to the extent that it now acts wholly in the interests of bringing Americans together for the advancement of their common purposes, clearly stated in the campaign. This has been made easier, not more difficult, by the campaign. Gov. Dewey and Gov. Bricker presented the opposition's point of view ably. They have nothing to regret. They lost the election, but they helped to set America's course for the future.

All the perils inherent in over-extended personal power and government which seeks to perpetuate itself remain; they have not been dissolved by the outcome of the election. But the people have chosen to risk them, hoping for the best—and deserving it.

From A Text By Marshal Stalin

Speaking of the United Nations and the efforts of the major powers—the United States, Russia and Great Britain—to guarantee post-war security and freedom from war, Marshal Stalin proposed this text in an address to his countrymen:

"The amazing thing is not that differences exist but how small they are and how well they are solved peacefully."

In the United States, we are warned that the Russians are sensitive to criticism and devoted to the practice of realism. We are told that in their dealings with other governments, Russia always is given first consideration—and that is as it should be. Russians might find it hard to believe, but they must bear a striking resemblance to Americans in these respects.

Americans are sensitive to criticism and, at the same time, prone to criticize somewhat more freely than they should. They admire realism when it is practiced by others, though in their own affairs many of them prefer to put their faith in idealism, a situation that makes them especially resentful whenever realism catches them off their guard. If Americans worked at realism 365 days a year, instead of making it an avocation, they would be better prepared for an occasional setback. The best hope of post-war peace and security lies in the probability that Americans may learn not to sink when they come out second best, as they are bound to do occasionally under a doctrine of international collaboration. If they construe every reversal as a loss of sovereignty and prestige and concede, by that token, that every triumph must be at the expense of another government's sovereignty and prestige, post-war peace and security may as well be abandoned now. That is equally true of Russia and Great Britain.

"The amazing thing is not that differences exist but how small they are and how well they are solved peacefully." That should be printed and hung over every council table of the United Nations.

Nothing To Apologize For

Following the normal course of action and reaction, many Americans feel inclined to apologize when a national campaign is over for the fact they got excited while it was in progress.

There is nothing to apologize for.

The holly-tollies who wrung their hands this year because the United States went ahead and had an election as close to usual as possible are welcome to a monopoly on alarm because Americans still behave like Americans.

It hasn't occurred to these viewers with alarm that instead of surviving in spite of ourselves we may be surviving because of ourselves—all of ourselves, including the "inner man" who takes charge of our political emotions every four years and gives them a violent shock. To be sure, it is not the plan followed in other countries, but from an American point of view that commends it. It has been this nation's chief distinction for 150 years to be different from other countries, not like them.

There were things said in the campaign that reflected more heat than light on the subject at hand; there always are. It is impossible to keep the temperature of electioneering at lukewarm level when anything worth electioneering for is involved—and certainly this year both sides brought stout convictions to bear on the contest. Politics in America has room for feeling as well as logic, and mostly it is logic that gives way. But that, too, is all right. There is nothing so sacred about logic that emotion must be placed beyond the pale, especially since we must deal with both and are governed by both.

The main thing is that Americans have become accustomed to a process by which they are able to select a government—a process that has worked for many generations and should be useful for many more generations to come, if it is understood and cherished. With all its faults and excesses—and the fact most of us are glad when an election is over and we can think and talk about something else for a change—it's a good system. At least no one has thought of a better one yet.

The Stars Say

For Thursday, November 9

A VERY propitious time for placing the affairs, employment, possessions and all serious objectives on a sound and enduring basis. It may require some deep analysis of plans and purposes, with a definite concentration of the energies and talents on a systematic and methodical summary of the factors and possibilities that may be considered assets. It is suggested that a subtle or quiet conference or agreement with others may be a concrete way of permanent advancement, especially in association with public or community authorities.

If It Is Your Birthday

Those whose birthday it is are encouraged to work with concentrated energies, plans and purposes for future stability and security. Promotion as a reward of merit or work faithfully accomplished may be looked for, likewise possessions, property and other tangible assets may be put on a solid basis, by straightforward analysis. The personal affairs are also under promise of growth, stability and more sentimental and pleasant security, possibly courtship and marriage. Cultivate those in influential positions.

A child born on this day may have much solid talent and equipment for a progressive, secure and happy future, in which system, sound plans and responsibility may attract rewards and sound cooperation.

GUARDING YOUR HEALTH

A Health Check-Up

By LOGAN CLENDENING, M.D.

WE ARE inclined to think when the subject of an annual physical examination comes up that it should consist of the examining doctor's listening to the heart and lungs, taking the blood pressure, weighing the subject, examining the urine and blood, and looking at the teeth, etc. But this sort of examination gives only the results, and the gross results at that of what has happened to the examiner as the result of the toll of the years and his habits.

The examiner can't do anything about the toll of the years, but certainly part of his duties consists of sitting down and reviewing the subject's daily habits and giving him some advice about how to improve them. Especially food habits. This is really an annual health audit.

The result of such a sort of audit as it affected food habits has been reported by two Philadelphia investigators. Dr. Howard T. Kelly and Miss Muriel Sheppard, on 85 subjects. The subjects were asked to keep a record of exactly what they ate for a week at two different periods. Then the examiners went over the diets in a cool scientific way pointing out where there was deficiency and where excess and giving advice for correction. Then a few weeks later the subject returned and reported how he or she was getting along on the diet with the suggested corrections.

Many Eating Correctly

About fifty per cent of the patients were already eating properly. To all intents and purposes, allowing for human nature and life in general, and likes and dislikes and restrictions imposed by the pocket book, they were eating an almost ideal diet. This is a pretty good record.

Of course there is no such thing as an ideal diet, the dietary yardstick of the Food and Nutrition Board of the National Research Council to the contrary notwithstanding. Man is an adaptable animal. He can survive on quite a variety of diets and remain healthy, the comparative examples of the Eskimo and the South Sea Islander and the Chinese being cases in evidence. It would be a pretty gosh awful world if everybody ate exactly the same right mathematical thing three times a day all over the world. The fact that about 50 per cent of these people ate about the right food is an indication of my contention that the reports that 95 million Americans are not eating properly are grossly exaggerated.

After consultation about improvements in their diet, all but eight of the subjects turned in reports which indicated that they were getting closer to an ideal diet. I cannot take up the items on the list, but will mention a few. About 40 per cent of the subjects were not getting enough protein per day, as shown in the low consumption of meat, eggs and milk. In calculating my own diet about a year ago I was surprised to find that I was just getting about, or a little less than, the right amount of protein—surprised because I considered myself a pretty good meat and egg eater. Meat is one of the "emotional" foods. People avoid meat because they have been told it is bad for the kidneys, or some other myth. The reasons given for not eating it by some of the low protein users were that it is hard to digest, or that it is constipating, or fattening.

Interesting that very few were taking an excess of calories per day—only two out of 85. One would have thought that with all the hullabaloo about reducing diets in this country half of us were eating too much. Nearly 80 per cent of the subjects in fact were eating too little—they had a caloric deficiency. About 20 per cent ate between 2,000 and 2,500 calories a day, and about 50 per cent had an unequal distribution of calories among the meals. But I can't say I think either of those are very terrible crimes.

Have a "Coke" = Ahoy, mates

...or keeping up the good work

Faster and faster the ships go down the ways in the wartime shipbuilding program. From sunny California to the coast of Maine, workers have learned that the pause that refreshes helps everybody do more work and better work. Have a "Coke" says a hard-working shipbuilder to his mates. It's a little minute long enough for a big rest. Whether in a shipyard or in your own living room, Coca-Cola stands for the pause that refreshes—has become a symbol of friendly relaxation.

It's natural for popular names to acquire friendly abbreviations. That's why you hear Coca-Cola called "Coke".

You Gotta Think Quick

By STANLEY PALEY Copyright, 1944, NEA Service, Inc.

XXII
That afternoon I went to the jail to see Rugg. The moment he looked up at me I realized what a tough job lay ahead. He was sullen and fat-faced, and about two years older than I. If he made the same expression on the jury as he did on me, he was headed straight for the chair.
It was a stunt to get him to talk. Maybe he felt I didn't like him. Or maybe he was suspicious of people in general. Finally I became irritated.
"Look here, Rugg," I said. "Your case doesn't mean a damn thing to me, but Boggio's does. And you'll do as I tell you or else you'll go to the chair."
That put him in a receptive frame of mind and I realized I'd hit on the right psychological approach. He began to loosen up, and from then on I got everything I wanted. But the more he told me, the gloomier the outlook became. From a strictly legal standpoint the guy didn't stand a chance.
There was one fortunate thing, however. He hadn't talked after his arrest. Had known enough to keep his trap shut when the cops questioned him. The rest was up to me.

During the following weeks I lost plenty of weight. The responsibility suddenly shoved on my shoulders got me down. I couldn't eat and I couldn't sleep.
Boggio would get in touch with me regularly to find out how I was doing. He'd call up and ask to meet me somewhere, or else he'd come to my place. For some reason he didn't want to see me at his apartment any more, and I figured he was afraid Ginger might find out in connection with the case. It bothered me. I had no particular desire to run into Ginger again.

I was in a spot. I hadn't the faintest idea what line of defense I was going to take, and at the same time I had to bolster up Boggio's confidence. To my surprise he was taking all this much better than I'd anticipated. Now that he really was in danger, he seemed as if a coward when he was worrying about his bellyaches.

The trial had been set for a Wednesday. I decided to go and see Rugg the day before. At last something had begun to percolate inside my skull.

I found Rugg gone to pieces. He began howling me out for not having come in earlier.
"Shut up, Rugg," I snapped. "I've got to talk to you."
He quieted down.

"Now listen," I said, "we're both up against a tough proposition. They're out to get your hide and they've got a pretty good case."
"Yes," said Rugg anxiously. He'd become very pale.

There's a certain way of approaching your defense that may save us. But you've got to cooperate. When they question you about the shooting don't be hesitant about admitting you did it. But don't give them any reason when they ask you why. Keep your trap shut."
"What the hell then?"
"Say you don't know and stick to it. I'll do the explaining."

There was an atmosphere of expectancy in the courtroom as Anderson, the prosecutor, drew to the close of his plea for a verdict of guilty. Rugg looked livid. I turned away and focused on the jury. They seemed impressed and I realized that if I didn't manage to wean them away from Anderson pretty quickly it was going to be hopeless.

I glanced at Rugg again. His face was twisted with fear as Anderson demanded the full penalty of the law for murder in the first degree. I was afraid he was going to start blabbing about Boggio so I motioned to him. He got my signal and slowly sank back in his chair again.

Anderson was all through. I cleared my throat and stood up. For about thirty seconds I didn't say anything. I merely stared at one of the four women in the jury. I'd picked her out at the beginning of the trial. Her name was Hannah Twichell and she was a motherly housewife with two chins. I'd chosen her because she had an air of authority about her and because it was plain she didn't like Anderson. She'd asked the judge a question and Anderson had barked at her. It was a foolish thing to do. Unless I was completely wrong, Hannah Twichell was going to be a powerful ally of mine. And as Hannah Twichell went, so would the three other women go.

My plan of defense was simple. I was going to counteract evidence with emotion. I was going to make Rugg appear the poor, bewildered victim of a harsh social order whose poverty-stricken childhood had forced him into a life of crime. I would show how he tried time and again to get out of the rackets and go straight but how he'd only gotten in deeper. And then I'd use the murder of Simms as a sort of grand finale, the supreme effort of a desperate man to regain his freedom and integrity. Wrong, of course, but really an act of self-defense.

The jury reached a verdict at exactly 8:20 that evening. I looked at my watch as they filed back into the box. They'd been out for more than four hours and I'd already contemplated the grim prospect of a deadlock and a retrial. If that happened Rugg would have been convicted for I could never have repeated my performance of that afternoon. I thought it was a terrific stroke of luck when they turned in a verdict of not guilty. It's a funny thing about life. Sometimes you don't know what was good and what was bad until the curtain rings down. And then it's too late.

LEAVES FROM A WAR CORRESPONDENT'S NOTEBOOK

by Hal Boyle

WITH AMERICAN TROOPS in Germany—Frontline flashes:

Two dead cows helped Pvt. George Harner, Reading, Pa., knock out several enemy pillboxes.

Harner's company was in a defensive position 150 yards from a series of concrete and steel pillboxes. He and a comrade were sent one dark night to check whether the Germans had withdrawn from these strongpoints.

"To reach the pillboxes we had to cross open terrain and the only means of cover were two dead cows," said Harner. "They were really fragrant—but they were something to hide behind at least."

The two soldiers crept from one cow to the other until they were within 25 yards of one pillbox and heard low voices speaking in German. They knew the enemy was still there.

Harner and his pal worked their way slowly back from cow to cow until they reached their own lines again. There they directed mortar and artillery fire on the German emplacements.

"I don't know whether I will ever be able to smell anything again," said Harner. "But I guess it was worth it, those Jerries didn't get any sleep that night."

Troops of one battleline unit in Holland found a new use for portions of concentrated H rations they couldn't consume. They fed them to a pet white goat, their company mascot.

The idea had only one drawback. The goat refused to eat one type of biscuits and one brand of cigarettes which also were highly unpopular with the troops.

The War Today...

By DeWitt MacKenzie
AP War Analyst

PREMIER STALIN'S blunt characterization of Japan as an aggressor nation is of prime significance. This is the first time the Soviet chief personally has spoken so sharply at least publicly to the country with which Moscow has a non-aggression pact — a treaty which the Japs no longer are likely to challenge. The marshal's charge certainly invites renewed speculation whether Russia may eventually join her Allies against the Mikado's militarists.

However, as I see it, there are a lot of "ifs" to be hurdled before we arrive at a Russo-Japanese conflict. I believe we must premise analysis of this question on the fact that the world is about to see an epochal readjustment of the spheres of influence among the major powers in Europe and Asia. Russia is emerging as the dominant nation on both continents.

If this readjustment is to be achieved peacefully there's bound to be much bargaining. Therefore it's not far fetched to assume that Russia's attitude toward Japan might figure very largely.

It's a fair bet that this question was one of the important items discussed by Marshal Stalin and British Prime Minister Churchill at their recent conference in Moscow. It's an equally good gamble that it will be near the top of the agenda at the next parley among them big three—America, Britain and Russia.

Maybe as a native New Englander I have a horse-trading complex, but it's hard to escape the thought that there may be considerable bartering.

Moscow would seem to be in rather an enviable position. Her interests in the Orient are vast, but as things stand she could remain passive and let Uncle Sam and John Bull whip Japan. They're committed to the task anyway.

However, that's not the complete picture. The readjustment of spheres in the eastern hemisphere must be considered as a whole—for both Europe and Asia. The cooperation and quid pro quo must extend from the English channel to the Pacific if we are to get the partnership which will permit of a workable organization to maintain peace.

It's vital that the big three stand together. This is particularly true because, as Stalin says, Germany already is planning a new war, and we know that the Japanese military clique also is preparing for another attempt 25 years hence.

It's possible, of course, that Allied interests might be perfectly served if Russia didn't go to war with Japan but merely granted America and Britain Siberian bases from which to operate against Nippon. Perhaps Soviet fighting forces wouldn't be needed.

Be that as may, one thing is sure: There must be all-out cooperation among the trio.

LATIN AMERICAN TRADE WELCOMED AT NEW ORLEANS

BY RAY M. THOMPSON

NEW ORLEANS — New Orleans, as soon as peace again permits normal travel on the seas, will offer to the world a symbol of democracy as full of meaning to foreign visitors as the Statue of Liberty in New York harbor.

As the Lady With the Torch represents "freedom" to immigrants, International House, now being prepared in New Orleans, will as eloquently symbolize "warm welcome" to all visitors from other lands.

Early in 1943, a group of industrial and civil leaders of the whole Mississippi Valley met in New Orleans to discuss this prospect. They realized that through the Port of New Orleans, which connects the Latin Americas with the great mid-continent area of the United States, all pour thousands of of strangers from other lands, as soon as the war is over.

These strangers, coming to make business or social contacts with the country that has been preaching the Good Neighbor policy, will expect, and must receive, an immediate evidence of our friendship and desire for mutual understanding. From their first impression of this city of entry will be formed their lasting impression of the whole country.

So, these men put their ideas and their money to work. They created International House and interested more business leaders until today it is a solidly financed and permanent program, backed by an organization of members that covers the whole Mississippi Valley, representing steamship, barge, air, motor and all transportation companies and business and professional men of all types interested in developing friendly relations between the U. S. and other nations.

International Club
International House is an organization whose members have raised over $350,000 in less than a year. A nine-story former bank building has been purchased in the heart of downtown New Orleans and architects and artisans are now racing time to prepare what will actually be an international club for post-war foreign visitors who enter the U. S. through New Orleans.

A comfortable lounge, main dining room with an excellent cuisine and five private dining rooms for the use of international guests will be provided. There will be an assembly hall sufficiently large to accommodate meetings, lectures and group gatherings of an international character; a reference and periodical library, and a film library. Offices, conference rooms and secretaries able to handle their own languages will be provided to foreign business men.

'Meanest' Woman Gives False Casualty Reports

KANSAS CITY—Three families here received mysterious telephone calls giving false tragic information concerning relatives overseas.

Each time the informant had accurate names and addresses of the persons notified. But the information was false.

HERE'S OUTLOOK ON VARIOUS BOWL GAMES THIS YEAR

Teams Nearing Finals And Bowl Moguls Looking Seriously Around

BY TED MEIER

NEW YORK, Nov. 7. — College football took a back seat today to the presidential election, but within the next few weeks the air probably will be filled with guesses on what teams will play in the various bowl games on New Year's day.

While nothing official has been announced, the various committees in charge of the Rose Bowl, Sugar Bowl, Orange Bowl, Sun Bowl, Cotton Bowl and all the other bowls no doubt have been maneuvering backstage for some time.

This is the way things shape up now according to information from unofficial sources:

Rose Bowl (Pasadena, Calif.) — The Nov. 25 game between Southern California and University of California at Los Angeles (UCLA) is expected to decide the Pacific Coast representative. The winner will invite an Eastern team with Tennessee reported as the likely choice. Last year USC trimmed Washington, 29 to 0, before 68,000.

Sugar Bowl (New Orleans) — Tulane, Georgia Tech, Mississippi State and Tennessee being considered as Southern representatives. Committee would like a western conference eleven as opponent. Last year Georgia Tech nipped Tulane, 20 to 18, in thriller before 27,000.

Orange Bowl (Miami, Fla.) — Tennessee, Alabama, Miss. State or Georgia Tech most likely choices to meet either Wake Forest, Duke, Holy Cross, Tulsa or perhaps second ranking team in Southwest Conference. Last year Louisiana State beat the Texas Aggies, 19 to 14, before 27,000.

Cotton Bowl (Dallas) — Oklahoma Aggies, Miss. State, Wake Forest and Georgia Tech most prominently mentioned as opponents for champions of Southwest conference. Five new tops conference, but Texas, Texas Christian and Arkansas still are in race. Last year Texas and Randolph Field tied, 7-7, before 15,000.

Sun Bowl (El Paso) — Sports writers are booming the Second Air Force, of Colorado Springs, Colo., and mighty Randolph Field as opponents. Last year Southwestern, of Texas, beat New Mexico, 7 to 0.

The East-West game will be played as usual at San Francisco, but nothing as yet has been heard from the Oil Bowl at Houston; Vulcan Bowl at Birmingham, Ala.; and the Flower Bowl at Jacksonville, Fla.

Then, too, there probably will be, as last year, an Arab Bowl game at Oman; a Potato Bowl at Belfast; a Lily Bowl in Bermuda; and a Tea Bowl in London.

SPORT CHATTER

By HUGH DILLERTON, JR.

NEW YORK, Nov. 8. — Consider the plight of the poor 11 Army football team. The Cadets have scored at better than a point a minute clip so far (some periods have been shortened), but if they don't beat 32 points against a still-legged Notre Dame outfit Saturday they'll be tabbed as "bums" by comparison with their leading rival, Navy.

Judge Landis' official baseball book, which didn't come out this year because of paper shortage, will be published again next summer.

TODAY'S GUEST STAR

Arthur Edson, AP—"Anyone owning a goal line stand should get in touch with Coach Henry Frenka of Tulsa immediately." (Tulsa has scored 67 points in its last two games and lost both.)

SPORTS BEFORE YOUR EYES

Ted Collins and Bill Shea are planning to revive the Long Island Indians of the American Pro Football association next year as a farm for their Boston Yanks. When Penn state's footballers were on their way to last week's Syracuse game, they stopped to join a bucket brigade and keep a fire from spreading from a barn to a farmhouse. Then when they reached Archbold stadium the team caught fire. The 41-0 score was the largest in a 22-game series.

FEALING THE APPEAL

This corner still is looking for data and dis-a-on-out-standing schoolboy footballers. Latest report comes from Paris, Tex., where Fullback Jim Hickley completed seven passes in seven tries the other night. Three went to Gus Cothran for touchdowns. . . can anyone beat a 1,000 average?

SERVICE DEPT.

Bill Daley, playing left half for the Fort Pierce, Fla., Navy "Amphibs," still wears the same number—45—that he had at St. Cloud, Minn., high school, Minnesota and Michigan.

MacARTHUR'S MEN IN BITTER FIGHT WITH LEYTE JAPS

(By Associated Press)
GEN. MACARTHUR'S HEADQUARTERS, Philippines, Nov. 8.—One of the bitterest battles of the Leyte campaign rocked the road to Ormoc today as the U. S. 24th division and units of four Japanese divisions battled in ridges below Pinamopan.

Savagely fighting Japanese slowed down the American advance and, for the first time, shelled Yank positions along Carigara bay.

One American battalion took an important ridge summit yesterday in the slow, dangerous campaign to drive the Japanese from favorable defensive terrain flanking the road. Progress was reported in eliminating Nipponese hillside positions, which would clear several miles of the highway leading to Ormoc.

Another American battalion punched along the highway. The Japanese, fighting with more skill than the original Leyte defenders, cut behind the column and straddled its communications.

The well equipped Yank battalion nevertheless continued its advance, meeting stiff resistance around the town of Limon, four miles south of Pinamopan.

In eastern Leyte, where large-scale Japanese resistance has been crushed, the American 96th division wiped out remaining enemy pockets in the hills near Patok and Dagami.

Off Ormoc, American planes damaged barges and small craft.

Gen. MacArthur's communique also reported "enemy air activity has been negligible. Since Oct. 20, our anti-aircraft defenses report a total of 144 enemy aircraft shot out of action, either totally destroyed or probably so."

JAPS TAKE HEAVY AIR, SHIP LOSSES

Manila Attacks Increase to 1,000 Planes Lost; 71 Warships Sunk

(By Associated Press)
U. S. PACIFIC FLEET HEADQUARTERS, Pearl Harbor, Nov. 8.—Hundreds of carrier planes from the Third fleet, in two knockout blows at Manila, increased to 1,000 the total Japanese aircraft destroyed and to 71 the warships sunk or damaged since Gen. Douglas MacArthur invaded the Philippines.

In his latest communique, Adm. Chester W. Nimitz said Saturday-Sunday blows by Hellcats, Helldivers and Avengers.

Destroyed 440 Nipponese planes.

Sunk a sub-chaser and a destroyer.

Damaged a light cruiser, two destroyers and five destroyers.

Sank three cargo ships and an oil tanker. Damaged 14 cargo ships and a trawler.

Blasted Nichols, Clark, Nielson, Lipa, Tarlac, Bamban and Malabac airfields, bases which must be kept neutralized to protect Yank invaders on Leyte.

Wiped out three oil storage tanks, destroyed a railway engine and five tank cars and inflicted heavy damage on ground installations.

Nimitz' Tuesday communique added 249 planes to the 191 he had reported destroyed Saturday. It added the destroyer to the warships sunk; two destroyers and two destroyer-escorts to the warships damaged.

"Figures on our own losses are not yet available," the communique said.

Locust swarms have been seen at sea 1,200 miles from land.

Dewey Takes It On Chin With A Smile; Accepts Peoples' Will

NEW YORK, Nov. 8.—Gov. Thomas E. Dewey took it on the chin with a smile today, conceding at 2:15 a. m. that President Roosevelt had been re-elected for a fourth term.

He expressed confidence that "all Americans will join me in the hope that Divine Providence will guide and protect the President off the United States."

With Mrs. Dewey standing behind him, the Republican presidential nominee said simply in a nationwide radio broadcast that "it's clear that Mr. Roosevelt has been re-elected for a fourth term and every good American will wholeheartedly accept the will of the people."

Extends Congratulations
Nearly 300 reporters, cameramen and employees of the Republican national committee jammed about a battery of microphones, as the New York governor walked smilingly into the grand ballroom of the Roosevelt hotel that had served as campaign headquarters, read a pencil-printed memorandum before him, and at a signal from radio men began his statement conceding the election.

"I extend to President Roosevelt my hearty congratulations and my earnest hope that his next term will see speedy victory in the war and in the establishment of lasting peace and the restoration of tranquility," Dewey said as a hush fell over those who stood and sat banked about him.

"I am deeply grateful for the confidence expressed by so many millions of my fellow citizens, and for their labors in the campaign," the defeated candidate continued.

"The Republican party emerges from the election revitalized and a great force for the good of the country and for the preservation of free government in America."

May Try Again In 1948
Beaten by the man he had attacked vigorously as having a "tired and quarrelsome" administration, Dewey prepared to go back to Albany late today to resume his duties as governor. His term still has two years to run and there have been many predictions that he would seek the Republican presidential nomination again in 1948, despite the party traditions against giving a second chance to those who have failed.

Congratulated on the race he had made, Dewey said: "I haven't said anything that I am sorry for or that I ever will have to take back."

When another reporter shook hands with him, Dewey remarked that "we've had a good time and I think it's been good for the country."

BUTTER IS SCARCE ITEM FOR WINTER

(By Associated Press)
WASHINGTON, Nov. 8.—Until some time in the spring you won't get any more butter—scarce now—than you're presently getting.

That's when the cows start to work overtime producing milk from which the butter is made. This is their lazy season.

This is how the War Food Administration (WFA) explains what has happened to our butter supplies.

Farmers make less money from butter than from the milk and cream delivered in bottles at your home. So they're worrying less about butter.

Meanwhile, Americans are drinking more milk than they ever drank. So—milk supplies are up, butter supplies are down.

Butter production in the pre-war period, 1935-39, averaged 2,170,000,000 pounds yearly. It dropped to 2,013,000,000 last year and to 1,771,400,000 this year.

Yet, 11 billion pounds more milk and cream are going into bottles for the home than before the war.

And additional billions of pounds are going into evaporated milk for the armed services and into cheese and other dairy products.
